Court Presents Budget

At the May 27th township board meeting, Judge Tina Brooks Green presented the board with the district court's 1998-99 annual budget. Typically presenting the budget to the respective communities is a formality and done quietly and quickly. However, Trustee McKinney took the opportunity to ask several questions regarding the revenues and expenses and pressed the judge for her opinion of the current dispute between the communities and the sharing of the surplus funds.

Judge Green took the diplomatic approach and said her official position as chief judge was that "she wanted all the communities to get along." This did not seem to satisfy Trustee McKinney who continued to question the judge even to the point of confirming with the judge that the three district judge's State of Michigan bar fees were paid by the court.

Following McKinney's questions, the rest of the board seemed to accept the budget in the spirit it was presented and quickly moved on to the next matter.

In another matter, the board accepted a rough draft of the township attorney's suggested language regarding the creation of a township manager or superintendent. It is expected that the board will review and discuss a later date. As previously reported in The Huron River Weekly, it appears there is some interest on the part of some board members to create a township manager-type position and change the supervisor's position to a part-time position.

The team was also given a berth and first seat in the championship Little League Series games July 26, in Kansas City.

Coach Rob and assistant coach Joe Miggiacco would like to gratefully thank local sponsors Joba Construction, Doetsch, Julian Electric, Timpko Custom, Davis Trucking, Inland Waters, Tella Foods, and Crown Trophy for sponsoring the Michigan Diamondbacks. Last week Barry Goldwater died and he was my hero.

I first became acquainted with Barry Goldwater in 1960 when he spoke before the Republican National Convention and told his fellow conservatives to "grow up." Following Mr. Nixon's defeat at the hands of John Kennedy, the Republican party began to look for new leadership and as always, turned to the "eastern establishment" wing of the party. In the past the party had turned to the so-called "liberal wing" of the party and their eyes always turned eastward. In this case they wanted to turn to Nelson Rockefeller.

However, Barry Goldwater, who was a senator from the state of Arizona didn't think too much of the eastern seaboard and following the 1960 elections he began the movement that would lead to not only his presidential nomination in 1964 but the ascent of conservative control of the party and the eventual election of Ronald Reagan.

Prior to Barry's rise to power, the conservative movement, once a proud doctrine rich with tradition, was in a state of shambles. The movement did not have an articulate spokesperson. Of course there was always the New England intellectuals that spoke of conservatism but had the appeal of a "dry toast" and the warmth of a "dead toad two days old."

But Barry came along in 1960 - I was in the eighth grade and I was in the mood for an idol. I was in the mood for straight talking, no nonsense, shoot-from-the-hip guy and Goldwater was my man. He articulated a clear and concise conservatism and in 1960 he began to spread the message. Conservatism began to get respected again.

I followed him in the papers and in 1964 as a junior in high school I was his campaign manager for the Kennett High School Moot Presidential Election. I campaigned hard for him and was smoked in a landslide victory by Lyndon Johnson. Later, I remember driving up and down the main street in downtown Kennett and watching the Democratic Club celebrating the real election results. I also remember talking to the two guys that actually voted for Barry.

I adored Barry because he stood for something. He spoke of an America that may not have existed but of an America that I wanted to exist. He spoke of the fear of Communism and of the necessity of taking a hard line against the philosophy. He was opposed to civil right legislation not because he was a bigot but on strict constitutional grounds. His position was similar to the respected Arkansas Senator Fullbright.

He believed that government that governed the least governed best and felt that Americans could end injustice without federal laws. He was an early and strong supporter of our involvement in Vietnam and he urged for stronger measures in the conduct of the war.

These views were considered extreme in 1964 and the nation rejected them but in reality they never rejected Barry Goldwater. In 1964 most Americans "knew in their hearts that he was right" but just couldn't bring themselves to vote for him. Lyndon Johnson was the inheritor of the Kennedy legend and Johnson was embarking of his "War on Poverty" and the civil rights movement was gaining momentum. The Democrats portrayed Barry as an extremist and crucified him for his

"extremism in the defense of liberty" speech but yet in 1961 President Kennedy's inaugural speech where he was willing "to bear any burden, assume any sacrifice in the defense of liberty" was received with great praise.

Looking back I suppose Barry was not the right man in 1964. However, I am convinced that if he had been elected president he would have moderated his tone. All recent 20th century presidents have moderated their views - the office tends to do that. Barry would have found a way to balance civil rights with the constitution in a peaceful manner. He would have toned down his rethoric in deference to the office of president.

If Goldwater was not the right man in 1964 he certainly was the right man in 1998. He had long retired from elected office but remained active in the state of Arizona made it clear that he was not happy with the current state of the conservative movement. He objected to the far right's penchant to adopt hard religious principles and stick their noses in the private lives of individual Americans. He spoke in favor of gay rights, abortion and as always a champion for the individual.

In my mind, Goldwater was a better man in 1998 than he was in 1964 and his life was a great lesson on how a man can learn and adapt to the times and still remain true to his basic principals.

The nation mourned the passing of a great spokesperson for America last week. I mourned the passing of my hero.

Rounding out the passenger list, we have:

Elisha J. Whitney – Billy's boss.

The four Angels, Reno's backup singers and an assortment of well-heeled passengers off passengers off on the adventure of a lifetime with the Captain and his crew of rowdy sailors.

4 REASONS WHY YOUR CARPET WILL SHINE

When You Use

Hildebrand Carpet & Upholstery Cleaning

1. Thorough Cleaning – Use the most thorough cleaning method there is. Some cleaning methods use chemicals that leave a residue on your carpet. That doesn't get the dirt out, it just covers it up. My method doesn't leave a residue and is very powerful. It cleans way down to the base so your carpet will look brand new again.
2. Stays Clean Longer – Since we clean all the way down to the base of your carpet, your carpet will stay looking clean longer.

Remember me?

Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star-Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your flag, the flag of the United States of America. Something has been bothering me, so I thought I might talk it over with you.

I remember sometime ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade and, naturally, I was always there, proudly waving in the breeze.

When your daddy saw me coming, he immediately removed his hat and placed it over his heart. Remember? And you, I remember you standing there straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat but you were giving the right salute.

Remember your little sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you, with her hand over her heart. Remember?

What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have added a few more stars since you were a boy, and a lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago.

But I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street, you just stand there with your hands in your pockets. I may get a small glance, but then you look away.

I see the children running around and shouting. They don't seem to know who I am. I saw one man take off his hat and look around. He didn't see anybody else with his hat off so he quickly put his back on.

Is it a sin to be patriotic anymore? Have you forgotten what I stand for and where I've been? Anzio, Normandy, Omaha Beach, Guadalcanal, Lorea and Vietnam.

Take a look at the memorial honor rolls sometime. Look at the names of those who never came back in order to keep this republic free. One nation under God. When you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

Well, it don't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So, when you see me, stand straight, place your right hand over your heart. I'll salute you waving back. And I'll know that you remembered.

Candidate Oakley

Local attorney Brian A. Oakley continued his campaign for a seat on the 34th District Court with a breakfast reception on Thursday, May 21, 1998. The fundraiser was held in his honor at the Clarion Hotel in Romulus. Oakley, considered a front runner for the seat being vacated by retiring Judge Henry Zavorowski, was guest of honor to a full house of dignitaries representing local communities served by the 34th District Court. The evening was also attended by government officials, as well as many individuals from the private sector.

Judge Zavorowski, after 24 years on the bench, has enthusiastically endorsed Oakley for the seat. "He has done a remarkable job of goodwill building," stated Judge Zavorowski, "and that is evident in the caliber of people here today."

Oakley has previously held gatherings outside of Romulus and plans more opportunities to meet and discuss issues with voters prior to this November's election. Anyone interested in Oakley's campaign may contact him at (734) 941-4296.
